GAYLE GILLIES MIZE VOLUNTEER OF THE YEAR FOR RSF FOUNDATION

On Thursday November 8th, the North County Philanthropy Council held its 21st Annual Volunteer of the Year Awards Luncheon at the California Center for the Arts, Escondido. Nearly 340 people were in attendance from more than 60 non-profit organizations in San Diego County to honor 49 outstanding volunteers and their work.

Gayle Gillies Mize was the honoree from the Foundation this year. In honoring her with this award, the Foundation stated that “Gayle personifies the ideal board member and community leader. Since joining the RSF Foundation nine years ago, and as a past Chairman of the Board, she has led the Foundation with wisdom and enthusiasm. Providing the vision and leadership for the RSF Women’s Fund is one of the highlights of her community involvement.” Gayle was joined at the luncheon by her husband Joe, daughters Nancy and Ginger and other members of the RSF Women’s Fund and Foundation Board of Directors.

Former honorees from the Rancho Santa Fe Foundation include Arloe Paul, Tony and Holly Wilson, Gordy Bartow, John Seiber, Bob Goldsmith and Neil Ash.
